What dialogue, reporting verbs and actions did you include?

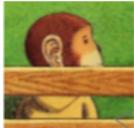

Today we will use that information to write a scene from the story that includes direct speech and character actions.

Do you wanna come on the slide?
It's lot of fun.

chirped

Plonked herself down on the bench. Smiled.

I'm not sure Mother would like me doing that.

stammered

Slowly turned his head with a blanc expression.

Oh go on. She'll not notice. And, the slide is my favourite thing in the whole world.

giggled

Pushed herself closer. Stuck out her tounge. Lept off the bench towards the slide.

Goodbye Mother.

whispered

Sat motionless. Body tingled. Slowly lowered himself off the bench. Shuffled away.

LO: To write dialogue using direct speech and character actions

The little girl skipped across the grass and plonked herself on the bench with a thud. "D'you wanna come on the slide?" she chirped. "It's lots of fun." And with that, a giant smile spread across her face. Charlie slowly turned his head and looked at the smiling girl with a blank expression.

"I-I-I'm not sure Mother would like me doing that," he stammered.

The girl pushed herself closer to Charlie and giggled, "Oh go on. She'll not notice. And, the slide is my favourite thing in the whole world." She stuck her tongue out, leapt off the bench and skipped off towards the slide. Charlie sat there motionless for a minute. His body tingled and heart pounded. Cautiously, he shuffled along the bench and lowered himself down. Not looking back, head hunched, he walked towards the slide and out of 'the shadow'.

"Goodbye Mother," he whispered.
