I am always delighted to read the children's writing, it is so lovely to see their progress and once again there are wonderful examples of good writing on the Writing Creatively board.

Our Trip to Saltwell Park

Last week all of Key Stage 1 went on a visit to Saltwell Park to do a fun run. There were lots of schools there so it was very busy and last year we even broke a world record!

We had come into school earlier that day so that we didn't miss the bus. Miss Foster did the register and sent us all to the toilet. Before we got the bus we got into our groups and walked sensibly out of school.

When we arrived at Saltwell Park there were thousands of people there. We walked to the main field to put our bags down then headed to the start line for the run. This is where we did our warm up and we saw the metro gnomes. It was funny teaching them how to do the floss. Then we started the race and I ran fast all the way around Saltwell Park so I was tired when I crossed the finish line.

At lunch time we ate our lunch under the trees where there was shade. For my lunch I had a tuna sandwich, crisps, fruit, a dairy lee dunker and a bottle of water. It was delicious!

In the afternoon we played games with the parachute, did skipping and the best part was going in the maze. I kept getting lost but I eventually found my way out.

Finally it was time to go back on the coach. We were all feeling very tired but it had been a fun day. When we got back to school it was home time. I enjoyed going to Saltwell Park because we had lots of fun.

Leopards

A leopard is a large type of cat that is becoming very rare.

Leopards are fast, fierce and furocios. Additionally leopards are fast felines that can run up to 58 hours. They're super springy and can leap up to 6m forwards through the air. That's the length of three adults lying head to toe.

Leopards are skilled climbers that are found in Africa and Southern Asia. They like to rest in trees during the day. Nocturnal animals like leopards are active at night when they venture for food.

Leopards have a varied diet, they can eat bugs, fish, antelope, monkeys and deers. In fact they eat anything available. They get their food by climbing up trees and sneak up on their prey.

The Dreadful Dead

When Macbeth made his dreadful and terrifying way back to his room, he saw his wife eagerly waiting for him, pacing the area.

"What did you make me do you demented woman!" He shouted clenching his fists; he could not believe what he had done!

His wife did not share his concerns "Do not fret my love for this deed will repay." She exclaimed.

"What shall I do with these daggers?" He said.

"Now they are dripping with blood!" He yelled looking at his hands.

She put her hands on his shoulders and gave him a kiss. "Calm, I have a plan."

Bugs n Stuff visit Nursery

Last week we enjoyed a visit from Guy from Bugs n Stuff; he brought in his collection of amazing minibeasts and reptiles to show us. These included a Giant African snail, a tarantula, a giant sick insect, a millipede, a corn snake, a skink (a type of lizard) and a cockroach. We learnt all about where they live, what they eat and how they camouflage themselves. We were very brave and held or stroked them all!
