Do any of us have an idea of what they might want to be when they grow up?

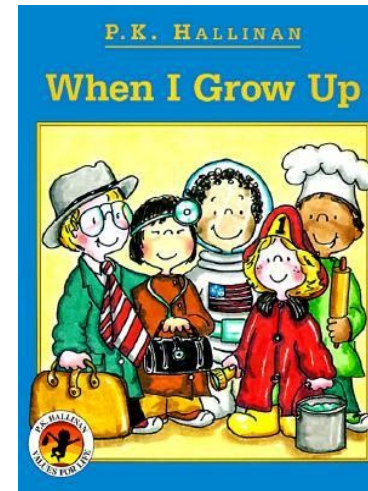

What would that job involve?

What might be needed to achieve the goal of getting and doing that job?

Talk to your partner and share your ideas with the class.

Some of us may not have any ideas about the future - this is perfectly OK. It might be that you don't know what jobs are out there, or that you can't remember them.

Watch this reading of 'When I Grow Up' by P. K. Hallinan.

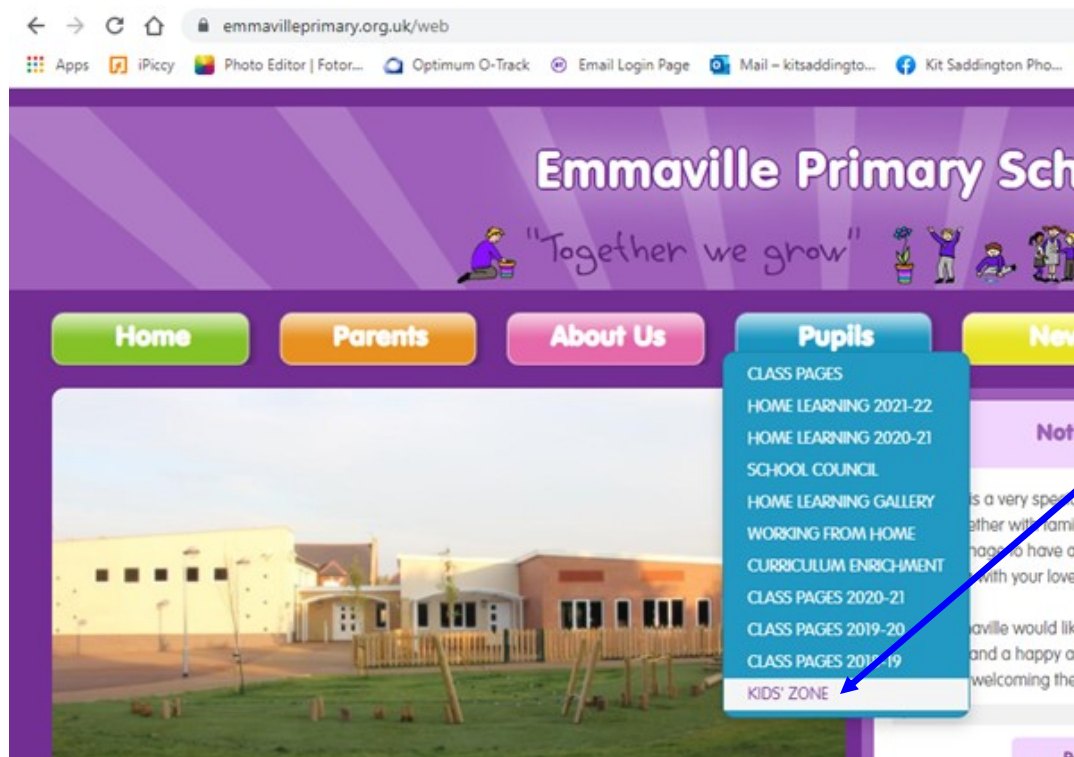

Did the book give you any ideas about your ideal job, or make you change your mind?

What was the central theme or message of the book?

Some jobs are easier to think about because we know quite a lot about them already, but others are more difficult, as we have no experience of them and don't know what skills they might need.

Often, it's more useful to think about the skills that we are good at, and then match these to a job.

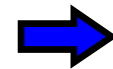

Fortunately, there is a great website that you can use called 'First Careers', which you can access by clicking on 'Kids' Zone' on the school website.

With a partner, use the website to research your dream job. You can search by job title, by subject (e.g. geography) or by brand.

Find out what the job involves, how much it pays and what qualifications it needs. Also think about three steps you will need to take to get to the job.
