LO: To learn a model text

This week we you have been introduced to the story 'Voices in the Park' which features four characters (not including the dog) that have very different personalities.

Today we will learn our model text with some of the characters in the story.

Read the text and highlight any vocabulary you are unsure about. Record any new vocabulary on a piece of paper and use a dictionary to check them.

As we are focusing on characterization, role play the text with family members.

Make sure you show they personailty of the character when you act it out. The language used in the text, helps you understand how the charcter should be acted.

Try to learn the text as much as possible.

You can do this whichever method works best for you

- draw a story map and retell it from the map

- read aloud and retell

- act it out until you don't need to look at the text
