Your character

Today, you are going to think of your own character ready for our innovation.

The one thing you need to consider is that your character needs to be involved in sending something from somewhere, to somewhere (like the lunch!).

Start by drawing a picture of your character.

Now, write a few sentences about your character.

You might tell me about:

- what job character your character has.
- what your character is like
- What your character looks like
- Where they live
- Who else is in their family.

DON'T tell me about their journey yet!!
